Vo-Tech students build home to sell

In an age of high costs in building homes, the Lackawanna County Area Vocational-Technical School has come forth with an opportunity to purchase a new home, for less money than would be the norm.

The school will offer a new home for sale, auction, and to the highest bidder on Sunday, Nov. 15.

Yes, that's what will happen. The Vo-Tech school authority will offer a new home, built by students in the home-building program at the Vo-Tech, under the supervision of John Mast, instructor.

The home is located at 120 Handley St., Eynon, and is the first of three homes now in the process of being built or renovated by the students, that will go up for sale.

The single-family detached structure at the Eynon site contains an extra large recreation room, 2 1/2 baths, a kitchen, living and dining rooms, large garage, open oak stairways with wrought iron railing, a laundry room and furnace room and a large brick fireplace. It is built on an 80-by-160-foot lot and is partially landscaped. The exterior of the home is covered with aluminum siding with a brick accent, has Anderson windows throughout and is fully insulated in the ceiling and walls. It contains gas and hot water heat with three zones.

The home building program is part of the educational system of the Lackawanna Vo-Tech. Students have been working on the project for the past two years and have built the home according to the codes of the building trades and to the specifications handed down by registered engineers.

The construction has passed all code requirements and the home has been classified as A-1.

An open house was conducted at the site on Sunday, Nov. 1, and will be held again on Sunday, Nov. 8, from 1-4 p.m. Persons interested in seeing the home can appear at the site during these hours and receive a guided tour of the home.

On Sunday, Nov. 15, at 2 p.m., the home will be auctioned to the highest bidder. The auction will be held at the Lackawanna Vo-Tech North Center, Old Plank Road, just off Rt. 6 in Mayfield.

The Lackawanna Vo-Tech, now in its ninth year of operation, will continue the program of building new homes with funds realized from their sales. Other homes now in the process of being built or remodeled are located in Mayfield, Jermyn, and Olyphant.

THIS DWELLING, located in Eynon and built by students in the home remodeling program of the Lackawanna Vo-Tech, will be sold on auction on Nov. 15. Open house for inspection of the home will be held Nov. 8 from 1-4 p.m. See story this page.

Lakeland students attend Marywood night

Lakeland students planning to continue their education after graduation were among those participating in the seventh annual Higher Education Night at Marywood College on Monday evening at Nazareth Hall.

This program was sponsored by NEU.

Nov. 19, in conjunction with the Northeastern Pennsylvania Personnel and Guidance Association.

Admissions officers from 70 colleges, universities, nursing and technical schools were available for questions regarding admissions and financial aid programs.

Over 125 principal fields of study from which to choose were explained to interested students and their parents during the program.

Anthony Spataro and Gerald Wasiluk, guidance counselors, were in charge of Lakeland arrangements.

Marywood class will hold parents' weekend

Marywood College Class of 1984 will conduct Sophomore Parents' Weekend Nov. 14-15. Parents and other family members of sophomores will visit the college and participate in various events.

The main theme of the weekend will be "Each Year Children," from the popular song by the group Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young.

On Saturday, Nov. 14, 1-2 p.m., parents will register in Nazareth Hall Blue Lounge. Events scheduled that day are: entertainment, 2:30-3:30 in the Gold Room; a water ballet, 4:15-5:15 in the field house; and a square dance, 9:30 to midnight in the Gold Room.

Sunday activities are: Mass, 11 a.m. in Regina Hall Chapel; and dinner, 12:30 p.m. in Nazareth Hall cafeteria.

In charge of plans for the event are co-chairpersons Margaret Maurer, who resides in Regina Hall, and Jacqui Conforti, a Madonna Hall resident. Details about attending may be obtained from them. Sister Anita Nemecik, IHM, is class adviser.

Allied plans open house in Jermyn

The public is invited to attend an open house from 3:30 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5 at the Allied Services for the Handicapped's transitional living program at 438 Washington Ave. in Jermyn.

During the event, Allied's transitional living program staff will meet with the public to present an overview of the program's services. Staff members will be available to answer questions and to conduct tours of the residence. Refreshments will be served.

The Jermyn program is a community residence for 10 mental health clients. At the home, residents are supervised by five full-time staff members, who provide support and training in socialization skills and activities of daily living.

Recent studies have shown that such community living arrangements, and not institutions, offer mental health clients the best kind of care.

In many cases, the support and training of the transitional living program help a client to progress to the point of living independently within the community.

The Jermyn program is one part of

WC DL, WLSP-FM name Zapotosky

The appointment of Mrs. Marjorie Zapotosky as general manager of Radio Station WC DL and WLSP-FM has been announced by Noble V. Blackwell, president of Lifestyle Productions of Pennsylvania Inc.

Lifestyle recently purchased the sister stations from Stainless Broadcasting Corporation.

Mrs. Zapotosky started as a bookkeeper with WC DL in 1952 and became general manager in 1959. She has watched the station grow from a 250 watt AM station to a 5000 watt AM, with additional FM station. Her duties will include supervision of both stations with special care given to WLSP-FM. When Lifestyle purchased the stations, the FM and AM outlets broadcast a "simulcast," that is, simultaneous programming. New management has changed the FM format and is now the only 24-hour FM station in northeastern Pennsylvania playing modern country music.

Mrs. Zapotosky was educated in Carbondale schools and attended Lackawanna Business School. She and her husband, Andy, run a dairy farm in South Canaan, and are distributors for Progressive Agri Systems Inc.

Ice Differences

BUYRUS, Ohio — Do you know the difference between ice made from distilled water and ice made in your own freezer? The clear commercial variety from distilled water is harder. It doesn't melt as fast, and it allows your drink to get colder, because there is no air in the ice. This also means there will be less dissolution of the drink.

"Ice from home freezers is usually cloudy, because it contains air," said Edward J. Dager, president of the Buyrus Ice Company here.

Sunday was 'C Day' in city

Sunday, Nov. 1, was C Day.

No, that's not a typographical error. Sunday, Nov. 1, was C Day as far as the U.S. Postal Service is concerned.

For on Sunday the price of first class postage rose from 18 cents to 20 cents for the first time.

And that increase brought about the use of another "non-denominational" stamp, the C stamp.

You remember the B stamp? It was used the last time postage rates increased.

Anyhow, the public has been buying the C stamp at the Carbondale Post Office since the office at Lincoln and Main got them in over two weeks ago.

Brisk business

And, according to Postmaster Gerald P. Barrett, it has been a brisk business as the public tried to beat the Nov. 1 rush. While the C stamp represents a 20-cent stamp, it can not, the postmaster warned, be used for international mail, including mail to Canada.

For the international mail, he said, the post office has a good supply of regular 20-cent stamps.

For those people who have an ample supply of 18-cent stamps and are now faced with having to add two-cent stamps, the local post office also has two-cent stamps available.

Plenty of penny stamps

The postage on post cards has also increased and Barrett told the Carbondale Mirror that there is a good supply of penny stamps to use on 12-cent post cards to bring them up to the current rate of 13 cents.

Anyone who did not plan for C Day can buy the needed stamps during lobby window hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., daily Mondays through Fridays and 10 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Business and industry

Two city businesses will share new South Main Street location

One of Carbondale's oldest and most prestigious dress shops, and one of the city's newest commercial photography businesses, are moving this week and planning to share facilities at 18 S. Main St., the site of the former Healy's Dragomart.

Mrs. Mary Catherine "Cathy" McNeerney, owner of the Nettie Wabel Shoppe, 40 N. Church St. and Ray A. Rinaldi, owner of Grace Studios (Visual Services Inc.), 3840 Lincoln Ave., will share the South Main Street location with an eye to "coordinating the bridal business," according to Mrs. McNeerney.

Rinaldi deals in commercial, industrial and architectural photography, together with portraiture, and wedding accessories. The Nettie Wabel Shoppe carries a complete line of women's ready-to-wear, lingerie and sportswear.

The Wabel shop was founded at least 50 to 60 years ago by the late Nettie Wabel, and was located on Salem Avenue, upstairs over the J.J. Newberry Store.

Mrs. Mary Price, who is now retired and lives at 19 Park St. in Carbondale, worked for Miss Wabel for ten years. Two years before Miss Wabel's death, Mrs. Price purchased the shop, and later moved it to the North Church Street location. Mrs. McNeerney purchased the business, and the company name, four years ago.

The current owner has continued many of the trend-setting styles in quality women's fashions that made the Nettie Wabel shop a tradition among well-dressed Carbondale women. Included in her inventory are coats by Bonnie Cashin, Rain Cheebat raincoats, misses petite dresses by Kevin Stuart, and sportswear by him, exclusively in Carbondale; Douglas Marc and Spellbound suit- and dress sizes and coats to size 24; and the popular coordinated Fire Island sportswear.

A native of Scranton, and a summer resident of Crystal Lake, Cathy McNeerney talks knowledgeably about her stock of "must-haves." "They're too beautiful to call fakes," she says.

She was previously a buyer for Meyers Furrer of Binghamton, and has worked in the bridal business. Because the Nettie Wabel Shoppe is affiliated with a New York City buying office, Mrs. McNeerney can "special order" almost any kind of women's ready-to-wear that customers may desire.

Cathy does the commentary for at least one fashion show a year, and will provide fashions and serve as narrator for a show scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 15 at the Treadway Inn, Scranton-Carbondale Highway. Sacred Heart of Mary Church of Jermyn is sponsoring the event.

A well known area newspaperman, Rinaldi is starting his fifth year in business in Carbondale. A Carbondale native, he was graduated from Benjamin Franklin High School in 1954 and served four years in the Air Force, including 14 months in Korea.

Rinaldi has many years experience in local networks, having started at the Carbondale Mirror in 1970 as a "jack-of-all-trades," including reporting and photography. When Rinaldi left the Mirror after seven years, he was editor of the weekly paper.

Mrs. McNeerney and Rinaldi are planning a mutual Grand Opening at their new location within the next few weeks. Both are hoping it will be, as Rinaldi puts it, "a happy and profitable association that will better serve our customers, since the new shop will be more centrally located, and closer to downtown parking."
